Dentistry Interview Questions and Answers With Full Explanations (Includes Sections on Mmi and 2013 Nhs Changes) Sri H. Ravi 2013-09-30 The Dentistry interview book is the number one selling dentistry book worldwide, providing an up-to-date review of the most common questions, with full answers and pointers on what the interviewers are looking for. Described as the 'essential guide', it is a vital resource as part of your preparation. Example question: Consider the case of nine year old Rebecca who comes in to surgery with her parents. This is her first dental visit. She has been kept awake with a painful tooth. Examination shows that she has several decayed teeth and that a lower right primary molar is causing the present pain. Rebecca is crying and climbing out of the dental chair. What is the best way to handle this situation. Clinically Rebecca's case draws on various themes. Without starting your undergraduate training you will not need to know about the clinical implications in detail. However, an understanding of the themes will make you stand out. A common answer is to indicate that some dentists may consider writing a brief referral letter to the local hospital for this tooth to be extracted with a general anaesthetic. The questions that you want to be thinking about clinically are:• Can this tooth be restored or does it need extraction?• What are the implications if I extract in the future (orthodontically can it have consequences)• Does the patient need General Anaesthetic or can this be managed within practice under Local Anaesthetic. • Rebecca has other dental needs as stated and has never attended a dentists before, how would I like to manage this to cause her the least upset?All of the above would require consideration of who would be consenting for the patient. In this case at 9 years old, the patient would require a parent or legal guardian to consent for her. 'Gillick Competence' allows for a child up to the age of eighteen to make their own decision regarding their care. However, the dentist must carefully assess that all the criteria for valid consent detailed in question four are present. There is particular emphasis placed on the patient's ability to understand and retain all the information given and communicate their reasoned decision. 'Gillick Competence' will be more relevant for scenarios where the child in question is slightly older. The ethical and legal responsibility to respect children as well as those who support them is essential in establishing strong professional relationships. In this particular situation explaining the options and offering choices will help the parents to make their decisions appropriately after understanding what's on offer, which in turn will increase the likelihood of co-operation, whichever option is finally decided upon.For Example:"The dentist should tell the family about the options and explain how the pain can be controlled with analgesics and a simple dressing. He /she should explain that it may be wise to slowly introduce Rebecca to dental care so that she becomes familiar with the dental environment before starting treatment. In this way he is enforcing the act of beneficence by acting in the patient's best interests and enabling the child's parents to make an informed decision- thereby enabling autonomy"Topics covered:GENERAL POINTS TO CONSIDER TRADITIONAL INTERVIEWS AND MMIS SCIENCE QUESTIONS ETHICAL QUESTIONS ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY PERSONAL QUALITIES ABOUT YOU WORK EXPERIENCE AND EDUCATION DENTAL & INDUSTRY DENTISTRY IN THE NHS CURRENT AFFAIRSWant to be tutored by the authors for your dentistry interview? Business Basics for Dentists David O. Willis 2013-03-05 Dr. David Willis combines his experience as a practicing dentist, educator, MBA, and certified financial planner in this breakthrough text about managing a dental business. Rather than a checklist of steps for success, Business Basics for Dentists describes business, economic, marketing, and management principles and explains how to apply them to the dental practice. Dental students and new practitioners will learn how to use the core strategic and operational business philosophies to develop an effective dental practice. He provides the essential elements of a business course-- management principles, economics, business finance, and financial analysis-- without bogged down in too much detail. These are then related specifically to various aspects of running and managing a dental practice, including office communications, billing, inventory, and marketing the practice. All aspects of practice transition are approached: career opportunities, buying a practice, starting a new practice, multi-practitioner arrangements, practice valuation, and planning and developing a practice. Last, Willis included personal financial planning to ensure that the dentist is also planning for his own finances and retirement beyond the bounds of the practice.

Preliminary Automated Dental Health Interviewing Ronald J. Bognore 1971 Non-optimal dental histories are prevalent today, even though histories have long been regarded as essential to informed and thorough patient care. A preliminary automated dental history interview was devised incorporating a minicomputer, a cathode-ray screen, magnetic tape storage, and a teletype keyboard. Questions were displayed on the cathode-ray screen, and responses were entered by the patient via the teletype keyboard. Answers were stored on magnetic tape for future reference and research. The sequence and amount of questions were dependant on the responses made by the patient; the program branched for further detail whenever necessary. A printed, syntactical summary was typed out by the teletype upon completion of the interview. Patient and doctor reaction was favorable and enthusiastic about the man-machine interface. Completion time ranged from twelve to twenty-five minutes. Average time was seventeen minutes. Automated dental health interviewing in this preliminary study proved suitable in eliminating the faults of the old systems, such as non-standardized recording techniques, illegible records, and inaccessibility of histories for statistical research purposes. We are also familiar with the process of getting into dental school, which we know is stressful and sometimes leaves you feeling deprived of support. That's why we wanted to create a universal resource where dental school applicants can gather useful information that gives them confidence when applying for a place at a dental school, ultimately giving candidates the best chances of securing an offer. We also wanted to create a network so those interested in studying dentistry could reach out to current dentistry students, creating an interconnecting union between applicants and those soon-to-be dentists.
